

PROGRAM WILL BE ANNOUNCED SOON

Committee in Charge of "Clean up and Paint up Week" Ask Co-operation of Citizens.

ORDINANCE ABOUT TREES

Prohibits Branches to Fall Lower Than Nine Feet Above Level of the Street.

If the plans for "clean up and paint up week" are generally adopted throughout the city as anticipated, Seymour will present a "much dressed up" appearance at the close of the week from April 13 to 18. The intention of those interested in the campaign ask the cooperation of residents in all parts of the city so that the "renovation" will not be neglected in any section. So much interest has already been shown in the movement that it is believed that at the close of the week Seymour will closely resemble a boy who had just donned a new spring suit after having his face washed and his hair carefully brushed.

The program for the week will be announced shortly by the central committee appointed by Mayor Ross Tuesday. This board will have charge of the work and will delegate various duties to organizations and individuals who have offered to assist in the campaign. A number of suggestions have been made and these will be discussed by the committee.

Mayor Ross called attention today to an ordinance regulating the trimming of shade trees and suggests that these requirements be remembered while other improvements are being made. The ordinance provides that all shade trees in the city shall be trimmed so that there are no branches lower than nine feet above the street level. The requirements must be complied with before April 1.

There are many places in the city where the trees have been neglected and consequently the branches have been allowed to grow so low that they interfere with travel on the streets and sidewalks. Because of the dense shade on several streets in the city this ordinance is of importance for if the branches drop lower than nine feet above the street they strike the top of some of the wagons and other vehicles.

Mayor Ross stated that after April 1 the chief of police would be instructed to make an inspection of the shade trees on the different streets and that if the ordinance was not respected other arrangements would be made which would probably not be pleasant for the owners. The attention of the council has been called from time to time about the condition of the trees and an effort will be made to enforce the ordinance after the time specified has expired.

The spirit of "clean up and paint up week" is already being noticed in several parts of the city and it is expected that it will become contagious before the time arrives for the general campaign. An inspection of the city will probably be made before "clean up week" and some suggestions will be offered relative to the disposition of trash and rubbish which have collected and for which no one person seems to have been responsible.

There are a number of vacant lots in the city that present an unsightly appearance at this time because they have been used as a "dumping" ground by the residents of the vicinity. These lots, it is pointed out, can be made into gardens or attractive lawns by a small amount of labor upon the part of a few citizens who are interested in improving their appearance. Such work would better the appearance of the surrounding property.

Daniel D. Hinkle Dead.

Daniel D. Hinkle died Wednesday evening at the home of his father, J. L. Hinkle, on East Fifth street, after an illness of two years with rheumatism and heart trouble. Mr. Hinkle was born in Owen township June 2, 1872 and was the son of J. L. and Nancy Hinkle. Although during his last illness he has suffered intensely, he was always patient and kind to those around him. The widow and one child, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hinkle and three brothers, L. W. Hinkle, of Winnesboro, La., O. A. Hinkle, of North Vernon, and Ezra Hinkle, of Rushville, and two sisters, Mrs. Susan Easton, of Washington county, and Mrs. Florence Ray, of Indianapolis, survive.

The arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

Remains Arrive.

The remains of Mrs. Catherine Savage, formerly of this city, who died Tuesday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Bennett, of Columbus, were brought here this morning and taken to the New Driftwood church where the funeral services were held. Burial at the Stahl cemetery.

Mrs. Savage went to Columbus just three weeks ago to make her home with her daughter and was taken ill shortly afterwards with erysipelas which caused her death. Besides Mrs. Bennett another daughter, Mrs. Mary Abdon, of Seymour, survives.

J. W. Loch Dead.

J. W. Loch, who formerly lived at Waymansville and Jonesville, died Friday, March 11 at his home in Hedrick, Iowa, aged 81 years. He was born in Coshocton county, Ohio, Dec. 24, 1832; he married Mary E. Bottorff, of this county, in 1854 and moved to Iowa in 1856. His wife and eight children survive.

Child Dead.

Avis, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Diggs, died Wednesday evening of pneumonia which followed an attack of the measles. This is the second child in this family to die within two weeks and another child is seriously ill. The funeral will be held Friday at White Church.

Bazaar, Food Sale and Lunch.

Will be held in Vehslage building on East Second street, a week from today, April 2nd. The Baptist Ladies Fortnightly Club hope to have a liberal share of your patronage at this time as the proceeds are to be applied on a pipe organ for the church. Sale will begin promptly at 11:00 a. m., positively not sooner.

Announcement.

I shall be at my office each afternoon from 2:00 to 4:00 until April 1. After April 1, I expect to be able to resume all my work again.

J. K. Ritter.

FLOOD OCCURRED JUST ONE YEAR AGO

On March 26, 1913 Seymour Was Practically Isolated From Outside World by High Water.

DAMAGE ABOUT REPAIRED

Railroad Bridges That Were Swept Away Have Been Replaced During Last Twelve Months.

One year ago today Seymour was almost completely isolated from the outside world because of the widespread destruction of railroad and traction property and telephone and telegraph lines by the most disastrous flood in years. The storm began on Saturday night, March 22, the day before Easter Sunday, and continued almost without ceasing until the following Wednesday. The crest of the flood waters was reached on Wednesday although they did not begin to recede to any great extent until Thursday.

The rise of the streams and rivers in this vicinity was very rapid. White River could be seen by looking west on Fourth street and much of the low land in the more immediate vicinity of the city was completely covered by the back waters. Several families living a short distance north of the city were compelled to leave their homes which were filled with water.

Despite the heavy destruction in Seymour and Jackson county the loss was hardly comparable to that suffered by other Indiana cities and communities in Ohio. Sections of several large cities were swept away by breaks in dams and levees and in the Ohio valley a total of two hundred lives were lost.

During that flood the patrons of the Seymour lighting plants and water company enjoyed the usual service while in other cities drinking water was at a premium and the streets were in darkness. The days of the flood in 1913 will never be forgotten by the employees of the water company who were compelled to work under great difficulties at the power station at Rockford. The furnaces were fired by men standing in water several feet deep and at one time the water was so high in the engine room that the waves dashed against the lower part of the grates in the fire box.

The destruction wrought by the high waters on the railroads is well remembered. During the year that has passed the tracks have been placed in good condition again, the bridges that were swept away before the torrential tide have been replaced and only a week ago orders were given on the B. & O. Southwestern to resume the fast running time of the schedules in force before the flood. The Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company suffered heavily and the last bridge that was washed away was replaced a few weeks ago at Edinburg. The I. & L. Traction Company suffered small damages compared to that on other roads because of the rock ballasted roadbed which was able to withstand the force of the dashing waters. The track on the Southeastern Line was

OFFER OF BOUNTY BRINGS RESULTS

Seymour Lads Are Busy Catching Dogs That Are Not Adorned With License Tags For 1914.

REWARD OF 10c PAID FOR EACH

Owners Who Neglected to Comply With Ordinance Find it Cheaper to Buy Required Check.

Chief of Police McCord's unique offer to the boys of Seymour to pay ten cents for each dog upon which the 1914 license has not been paid promises to become one of the most successful plans ever inaugurated in this city for the enforcement of the dog license ordinance. Five dogs were brought to the police station this morning by as many lads and the bounty offered was duly paid. The boys pocketed their money and started out in search of more untagged dogs.

The notice issued by the chief of police Wednesday afternoon resulted in a small rush of owners to pay the required license fees before their dogs were caught and taken to the police station for the reward. Seven licenses were issued in about two hours this forenoon. The city clerk, Albert Johnson, expects that other licenses will be issued before Saturday and when owners find that the youngsters are "on the job" ready to nab any unsuspecting canine that ventures forth upon the street without his neck properly adorned with a check. The police believe that in a few days very few dogs without tags will be seen.

According to the notice issued by the chief of police Wednesday afternoon he will pay a bounty of ten cents upon each dog not wearing a check that is brought to the jail. A provision is made, however, that no reward will be paid for dogs upon which the license for 1914 has been paid but for any reason is not wearing the tag issued. The purpose of the offer is to learn the names of owners who have neglected to comply with the ordinance which requires that such licenses shall be paid before March 1st.

It was known that there were a large number of dogs running at large in violation of the license ordinance and the police were confronted with the perplexing problem of how to enforce the regulations. Several plans were considered and it was agreed by the officials that the best results would be obtained by getting the boys of the city interested. If the plan works as successfully during the next few days as it has this morning owners who have not paid the license will probably find their missing dogs at the police station. Before they can be taken out it will be necessary to pay a penalty of fifty cents, purchase the license and settle expense of keeping them at the rate of twenty-five cents a day.

Because of the popularity of the plan and the resultant success an additional offer is made of $1 to the boy who will bring the largest number of dogs to the police station within the next six days. As school adjourned Wednesday afternoon and will not convene until next Monday several lads are giving their entire time to catching dogs and expect to make their time profitable. The additional offer of one dollar for the largest number of dogs brought by anyone boy will result in more interest, it is thought, and will bring the campaign to a close in a shorter length of time.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Reports Showed That Various Departments Are in Good Working Condition—Social Hour.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian congregation was held at the church Wednesday evening. There were good reports from all the church organizations indicating that all departments are in good working condition. At the close of the reports the officers of the previous year were reelected for the coming year. Following the business session a program was given as follows: Orchestra Selection...Will Masters, Estel Hancock, Don Bollinger. Monologue.....Earl Cox 'Cello Solo.....Estel Hancock Male Quartet...R. J. Barbour, J. E. Graham, Albert Loertz, Albert Meseke

The men who had taken charge of the evening then invited the church members and guests to the Sunday School room where refreshments were served. The service was performed entirely by the men who served as waiters and looked after the arrangements generally under the personal supervision of C. D. Billings as head waiter, and Chas W. Granesle as chef. Several humorous placards adorned the banquet room, each one advertising loudly the merits of the waiters and the service they were rendering. The evening was very much enjoyed by all who were present.

PYTHIAN SISTERS ARRANGE FOR DISTRICT MEETING HERE

Success Temple Will Entertain Visitors From Eight Counties on April 1.

The members of Success Temple Pythian Sisters have about completed all arrangements for entertaining the District meeting of the Eleventh District which will be held in this city Wednesday, April 1st. The district is composed of Jefferson, Jennings, Jackson, Scott, Floyd, Crawford, Orange and Washington counties. Visitors will be here from New Albany, Georgetown, Milltown, Campbellburg, Orleans, Mitchell, Medora, Brownstown, Houston, Scottsburg, Crothersville, Uniontown, North Vernon, Dupont, Commiskey, San Jacinto and Madison. Several of the grand officers will attend the meeting. Among whom will be Mrs. Laura Smith, of Marion, Grand Chief; Mrs. Carrie Molineaux, Grand Senior, and Mrs. Ruth Patton, District Deputy Grand Chief, both of New Albany. Success Temple hopes to make this one of the best meetings in the state. The presiding officer Mrs. W. G. Geile has left nothing undone to accomplish this. Dinner and supper will be served to all visitors as well as to the local members at Armory hall, which will be one of the social features of the occasion. A secret session will be held both afternoon and evening.

ARGUMENTS HEARD ON TOLLS CLAUSE

President Wilson's Supporters in Congress Insistent That His Wishes Shall be Obeyed.

MANY MEMBERS WILL SPEAK

Expected That Vigorous Debate Will Extend Over the Week—Democrats Divided.

Washington, March 26—The President's supporters in the house, today, prepared to draw on their resources to the limit to carry the contest over the bill to repeal the provision of the Panama canal act granting free passage to American vessels. A sharp and vigorous debate extending over the rest of the week and possibly into next week, was expected by those in charge of both sides of the controversy.

The division in the Democratic ranks, the first serious defection that has confronted the President on a question of administration policy and the general elimination of party lines in the contest, promised a bitter fight, although the President's followers expressed confidence that they would pass the repeal bill by a substantial majority.

When the house met today there remained a few pages of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill to be disposed of. It was understood that Chairman Henry, of the rules committee, was then to present the special rules, limiting debate on the Sims bill repealing the free tolls section, to twenty hours. The original plan was to limit the debate to fifteen hours. Both sides were preparing for a vote on the rule, as a test ballot on the repeal measure itself. A score of members were ready to speak for or against the bill.

TEACHERS ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING AT INDIANAPOLIS

Local Schools Adjourned Wednesday Afternoon for Week so Teachers Could be Present.

Pupils of the Seymour public schools are enjoying a two days' vacation the classes having adjourned Wednesday afternoon for the week so the teachers could attend the convention of the Southern Indiana Teachers' Association in session at Indianapolis. Practically all the teachers employed in the public schools went to Indianapolis this morning and will remain until Saturday. Many prominent educators have been secured for addresses.

The state law governing teachers' licenses and salaries provides that they shall attend the meeting or shall spend the same time in visiting other schools. Several of the local teachers will spend the three days visiting city schools. The program has been arranged so that the general meetings will not interfere with any of the sectional meetings.

FORMER M. E. PASTOR AT BROWNSTOWN PASSES AWAY

Rev. Francis Walker, Aged Minister,
Died Wednesday at His Home at Charlestown.

After an illness of twelve days of cancer of the stomach, the Rev. Francis Walker, an aged minister and head of the firm of F. Walker & Company, nurserymen and florists in Louisville and New Albany, died Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock at his home in the Charlestown road, a mile from New Albany. He was the father of Ferdinand Walker, a Louisville artist, and the Rev. Dr. John M. Walker, superintendent of the New Albany district of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference.

The Rev. Mr. Walker was 83 years old and a native of New Richmond, O. His father died when he was a child and with his mother and brother he moved to Illinois. He later returned to New Richmond to attend the Clermont Academy. He finished his education at the Ohio Wesleyan University. When quite a young man he moved with his mother to New Albany, where he married Miss Elizabeth Graham, daughter of John Kennedy Graham in 1853.

In 1858 he entered the Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference, of which he was a member fifty-six years. His first charge was at Paoli and he served successively at Mitchell, Newburg, Brownstown, Cannelton, Kingsley, Evansville, Mt. Vernon and Washington, moving from Washington to New Albany to educate his children. Thirty-nine years ago, in partnership with his son, Herbert Walker, he embarked in the nursery florist business. While conducting this business he served as pastor of the old John street Methodist church in New Albany and on the New Albany Methodist circuit.

Besides his wife the Rev. Mr. Walker is survived by nine children. There had been no deaths in the group of eleven members for forty-five years. His surviving children are Herbert Walker, of Louisville; Ferdinand, Clarence, the Rev. Dr. John M. Walker and Earl Walker, of New Albany; Ernest Walker, of Auburn, Ala.; Francis Walker, of Wilmette, Ill., and Misses Abbie and Harriet Walker, who have lived with their parents.

Funeral services will be held at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. John Poncher, of Orleans, former superintendent of the New Albany district, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Delivery of passenger equipment ordered several months ago by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will be started about April 1, and it is expected that through trains will be operated with the new equipment during the summer season. The equipment on order consists of coaches, smoking cars, diners, baggage, express and postal cars. Freight cars also are included in the outstanding order. When the new steel passenger equipment is placed in service, the cars of this type now in use on through trains will be assigned to local trains.

SEARCH REVEALED THE AMENDMENTS

Secretary of State Had Not Been Officially Informed of the Action of Legislature.

REVIEW OF HOUSE JOURNAL

Director of Legislative Information
Discovered Records—Amendments
Must be Passed Again in 1915.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26—For more than a year the state of Indiana has remained in official ignorance of the fact that twenty-two amendments to its constitution had made half the journey towards the statute books. Some few persons with good memories may have had some inkling of this, but when they were informed positively from many official sources that no action had been taken by the 1913 legislature, on any amendments, they gave grounds.

When the United Press recently sent out a list of twenty-two amendments started on their way by the 1913 legislature, several papers "out of the fold" questioned the accuracy of the story. They inquired of the secretary of state, who told them that his office had no record of such amendments, and that none had been acted on favorably by the legislature.

Fearing that its records of the legislature were inaccurate, the United Press sought to verify them. Making the rounds of the offices of record at the statehouse without success, the office of John A. Lapp, director of the bureau of legislative information finally was reached. Mr. Lapp was asked what he knew of amendments having been acted on by the legislature.

Lapp told the United Press that he had just completed a similar search for the amendments, following out the "hunch" his memory gave him that they had been acted on.

"But I couldn't find them," he said, "in any of the compiled records. Finally I went to the source of information—the journals of the house and senate. And I have just found in those journals records to the effect that the house and senate passed the twenty-two amendments."

By some oversight of the clerks the secretary of state was never notified of the action. He could not imagine what would have been the result if the amendments had not been found. Probably the legislators who favored them would have remembered, he said, though in the rush of deciding for or against a constitutional amendment the mere trifle of twenty-two amendments might have been forgotten even by their fathers.

On page 2,143 of the house journal will be found record of the amendments. In the senate journal they are on page 1,959.

It has not been customary to record such action in the biennial session laws. The amendments will not become effective unless passed again by the 1915 legislature.

These amendments briefly summarized are:

1—To put an end to aliens voting on first papers, except those who have already done so.

2—Giving the legislature power to enact a workman's compulsory compensation act.

3—Proving that voters must be citizens of the United States and must reside in the state one year. Persons who are now voters but not citizens of the United States shall continue to be voters.

4—Providing that township officers may be elected at any time provided by law instead of the general election in November.

5—Providing that "The General Assembly may adopt special charters for the different cities of the state."

6—Providing that "The governor of the state may veto any clause or clauses, item or item, in any appropriation bill, and may approve the resident item or items in any appropriation bill, and may approve the residue of such bill."

7—Providing that all elective officers of the state, except judges shall hold office for four years, and no person shall be eligible to any such office for more than four years in any period of eight years.

8—Providing that the county officers, except county commissioners and judges, shall hold office for four years and shall be ineligible for reelection.

9—Providing that township officers shall hold office for four years and shall be ineligible for reelection.

10—Providing that the judicial

17—That the general assembly in enacting laws for the assessment of property for taxation shall have the right to classify different kinds of property, and to provide for a different kind of property, and for a different manner and basis of the assessment and later of taxation for each class.

18—Empowering the general assembly to amend or alter the charters of all corporations and voluntary associations.

19—Amending Sec. 1, Art. 12 by striking out the words "white" in describing persons who may join the state militia.

19 1/2—Providing that municipal corporations for the purpose of constructing or otherwise acquiring any work of public utility, may incur an indebtedness in excess of two per cent. of the assessed valuation of property in such corporation when ratified by a majority of the electors in such corporation voting on the question.

20—Proposing that no officer shall have his salary increased during his term of office.

21—Proposing that amendments to the constitution may be passed at one session of the general assembly and shall then be submitted to the voters of the state for ratification and that if a majority of the voters on the question shall vote to ratify such amendment the same shall be adopted, also that any political party may endorse such amendment and a straight party vote shall be counted for the amendments also that no constitutional convention shall be called unless an act has been passed calling such convention and such call has been ratified by a majority of the legal voters of the state.

22—Providing that when two or more amendments are submitted at the same time they shall be submitted in such manner that the voter may vote for or against each of such amendments separately.

SOUTHEASTERN AGENT TO GO TO WEST CLINTON

S. L. Cherry, Who Held Position for Six Years, Is Succeeded by V. A. Wray, of Elmore.

S. L. Cherry, who has been local agent of the Chicago, Terre Haute & Southeastern Railroad for the last six years, has been transferred to West Clinton and will take charge of the office there Monday. The change is quite a promotion for him as the business at West Clinton is large on account of the heavy coal shipments. Besides being passenger agent he will also have charge of the freight business. Mr. Cherry will be succeeded by V. A. Wray, who comes here from Elmore.

During his six years residence in Seymour Mr. Cherry has made many friends who regret that he is to leave the city but congratulate him on his promotion. Under his supervision the business of the Southeastern Line shows a decided increase in this city. Before coming to Seymour he was relief agent for the Company and has a wide acquaintance among the employees of the road with whom he is popular because of his congenial manner. He will move to West Clinton in about ten days. Mr. Wray, who becomes the local agent, has had considerable experience in railroad work and is an energetic young man. He is already in charge of the Seymour office and has established his residence here.

Fred Spears, who was arrested at Brownstown Tuesday, was fined $1 and costs Wednesday in a justice's court for assault and battery. He was arrested by the Brownstown officers after they had been asked by the Seymour police to watch his movements.

A daughter was born March 25, to Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Weininger, at their home on East Fifth street.

Republican Convention Call.

Pursuant to the order of the Republican State Committee the Republicans of Jackson county are called to meet in mass convention on Saturday, April 11, 1914, at the hour and the place in each township designated below for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention to be held at Indianapolis on Wednesday and Thursday, April 22 and 23, 1914, for the purpose of adopting a platform and to nominate candidates of said party for the several offices of said state to be voted for at the general election in November, 1914.

The various townships will elect delegates to the state convention as follows:

Carr township will elect one delegate. Place of meeting, Medora. Time 2 p. m.

Brownstown township will elect one delegate. Place of meeting, Brownstown. Time 2 p. m.

Driftwood township will elect one delegate. Place of meeting, Vallonia. Time 2 p. m.

Grassy Fork township will elect one alternate delegate. Place of meeting, Tampico. Time 2 p. m.

Hamilton township will elect one delegate. Place of meeting, Cortland. Time 2 p. m.

Jackson township will elect four delegates and four alternate delegates. Place of meeting, Seymour. Time 7:30 p. m.

Owen township will elect one alternate delegate. Place of meeting, Mooney. Time 2 p. m.

Redding township will elect one alternate delegate. Place of meeting, Walnut Grove. Time 2 p. m.

Salt Creek township will elect one alternate delegate. Place of meeting, Freetown. Time 2 p. m.

Vernon township will elect one delegate. Place of meeting, Crothersville. Time 2 p. m.

Washington township will elect one alternate delegate. Place of meeting, Dudleytown. Time 2 p. m.

Delegates elected under this call will meet in Room 85 of the State House, at Indianapolis, Indiana, on Tuesday, April 21, 1914, at 7:30 p. m.

Precinct committeemen in the several townships will please look after places to meet and personally urge all republicans to attend their township conventions. Republicans in general throughout the county are urged to attend these meetings and participate in the selection of delegates to the district and state conventions.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1914.

Seymour people and the residents of this community have reason to congratulate themselves upon the high character of the local stores. The complete stocks, high quality of goods the reasonable places and the courteous treatment are well known and make the Seymour shops popular. The spring lines are now being displayed and are very attractive. The local merchants are in a position to accommodate home trade better than dealers in other cities. One of the best arguments in favor of buying at home is because the dealers here can give the best goods at the most reasonable prices and stand back of the guarantee which is placed upon the purchases.

Every citizen of Seymour should be interested in the plans for "clean up and paint up week" which will be conducted April 13 to 18. There are collections of trash, rubbish and debris about the streets and alleys and in almost every back yard that should be removed. Aside from appearance such trash is a detriment to public health as it is a breeding ground for flies and disease germs. A little work during that week upon the part of all citizens will result in a greatly improved city from the standpoint of appearance and sanitation.

The editor of the Brownstown Banner evidently don't think very much of his own advice. Instead of trying to unite his own party he overlooks the democratic fight altogether and gives his sole attention to ancient history in the Republican party. Meanwhile the democratic factions are growing more and more bitter which the machine knows but is reluctant to admit it.

Coxey's army made its last memorable march to the capital during a democratic administration. The democrats are again in power and it is announced that another band of unemployed will again invade Washington. History is repeating itself. At the close of this administration history will repeat again and a Republican president will be elected in 1916.

The factional trouble among the democrats is too bitter a dose for the Brownstown Banner to swallow. Its able editor is exerting his best efforts to bolster up the party by trying to stir up strife in the Republican ranks. When the time comes, however, he will find the Republicans in mighty good fighting form.

A well kept, clean city shows that the citizens are wide awake and energetic. In Seymour there are just that kind of people. The result will be seen during "clean up and paint up week."

WORKING FOR YOUR POCKETBOOK.

It is the duty of all of us to use every fair means to protect our own pocketbooks.

That is thrift in its best sense.

When we spend money we should get something of substantial value for it.

We should buy with knowledge.

The advertising in this newspaper assists you to this knowledge—it plays an important part in your well being.

It is the news of the market place; and by reading and weighing it you are equipped to buy to the best advantage.

Women long ago learned the value of advertising, because they have the large part of the family income to spend and must make the dollars go as far as possible.

They realize that it pays to know—and to buy—when and where the opportunity is best for them. And they realize, too, that they can gain this knowledge from the advertising columns of good newspapers like THE REPUBLICAN.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

PRISCILLA CLUB.

Mrs. J. G. Laupus entertained the members of the Priscilla Club Wednesday afternoon at her home on North Walnut street. The guests spent the afternoon with their fancy work after which an excellent spring luncheon was served. She was assisted by her daughter, Miss Myra, who is home from Indiana University for the spring vacation.

TORREON, STORM CENTER;
VILLA ON EVE OF BATTLE.

Mexican Town and Rebel Chief Who Planned For Its Conquest.

Torreón, which now occupies the center of the stage in the troubles of Mexico, was founded less than thirty years ago and has a normal population of 26,000 persons. It has large soap, cotton, flour and iron manufactories, and a great smelter receives ores from neighboring mines. Nine months of the year the landscape is a picture of desolation, but the annual rains bring color and bloom. Normally there is a large foreign colony in Torreón, but most of these have fled, leaving only a few as caretakers of important property.

General Carranza and President Huerta agreed some time ago to the establishment of a neutral zone at Torreón, where foreigners would be safe from bullets.

The adjacent cities of Gomez Palacio and Laredo rise or fall in a military and political sense with Torreón.

A correspondent gives this interesting pen picture of General Pancho Villa as the rebel chieftain was perfecting his plans of attack:

"General Villa was everywhere, a fury of energy, now grabbing the halter of a refractory mule, now criticizing the lashings of a pack saddle or snapping orders at a subordinate officer. He went from point to point in his private car, attached to a light engine, and wherever he alighted his horse, saddled and bridled, was instantly awaiting.

"The light of battle fairly burned in the rebel leader's eyes. These are very wide set, so that when he looks at a visitor at close range they seem almost to cross, and their dark depths, always glowing, seem actually to flame in moments of excitement.

"His subordinates rarely argue with him, and in such moments when he shows intense excitement—never. It is a danger signal—one which the Scotchman, Benton, is said to have failed to heed."

General Felipe Angeles, chief of the artillery corps, named as second in command, to take command in the event of the death or disability of Villa, is a member of General Carranza's cabinet and was detached at Villa's solicitation to participate in the battle. He is an expert in the use of the big guns of the service, and many an artillery officer in the enemy's ranks at Torreón received his schooling from him.

LAKE ELLEN WILSON.

Montana Pond of Surpassing Beauty Named For the President's Wife.

Secretary Lane of the interior department has directed that a lake in Glacier National park be called Lake Ellen Wilson in honor of the wife of the president.

At the time of his visit last summer to Glacier National park, in Montana, Secretary Lane was much impressed with the beauty of this lake, which lies along the trail from Lake McDonald to Upper St. Mary lake. The lake is about a mile long and half a mile wide. Lying more than a mile above sea level, the forests and cliffs which surround it are reflected from its surface as in a mirror. The water of the lake is a deep blue, probably on account of its depth, which is more than 250 feet. Upon inquiry the secretary found that this small body of water, which is probably the most beautiful of its size in the entire west, was without a name and accordingly christened it Lake Ellen Wilson.

FLOOD OCCURRED

washed from the roadbed for several miles in a stretch but this road was the first to resume a schedule of passenger trains. The road bed was ballasted with rock and was not damaged as greatly as those built of soil.

Local people who had relatives and friends living in Indianapolis, Dayton, Toledo and other cities that were reported to have been inundated will long remember the effort they made to learn the true facts concerning the flood. Early reports that were received here told of entire cities being washed away, with practically all the inhabitants drowned. As telegraph and telephone communication were cut off north of the city The Republican relayed telegraph news from the outside world to Louisville thence to Seymour as the telephone line south was the only means of communication.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reynolds went to Crothersville this afternoon.

THIS STOMACH REMEDY
REMARKABLY SUCCESSFUL

You know us—your home druggist. You know we wouldn't guarantee any remedy to relieve indigestion or dyspepsia, or money back, unless we felt the utmost confidence in that remedy. Therefore, when we offer you Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets with this proof of our faith in them, it leaves you no room for hesitation or doubt.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the fact that they contain among other things, Bismuth and Pepsin, two ingredients endorsed by the medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of stomach ills. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check heartburn and distress, stimulate the secretion of gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich, red blood. In a short time they tend to restore the stomach to a naturally comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They also benefit the bowels.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00. H. H. Carter Drug Co., Seymour.

We are making a special price on Lime Sulphur in barrel lots, as we are overstocked. Now is a good time to make your purchase, as you will need considerable when spraying your fruit trees thoroughly for San Jose scale, which should be done this week.

THE POPULARITY OF THE SIMPLE ONE-PIECE DRESS STILL GROWING.

The plainness of these little dresses makes them economical as well as becoming. By merely adding one of the new girdles or sashes or an upstanding collar of organdy or net, the frock is perfectly suited to almost any afternoon affair. While the Oriental belt is not as much favored as it was last season, there are still a few very attractive ones being worn; the brightly colored Neapolitan sash, knotted at the side, is wonderfully effective with a dark dress.

No. 8096 is developed in plain terra cotta duvetyn; it closes at the side front, has one of the new yokes, a three-piece skirt.

This dress may be copied in size 36, with 4 1/2 yards of 42 inch material.

Cotton duvetyn may be purchased from $1.25 a yard and up.

No. 8098 is a dress that is perfectly suited to the street, shopping trips or for a business dress; it is developed in dark brown serge with a skirt of fine check in brown and white. The blouse has a tuck over either shoulder, a full length sleeve and a small sailor collar. The skirt has a shaped yoke, the lower section being fitted in with several dart tucks.

This dress requires for size 36, 4 1/2 yards of 42 inch material.

No. 8096—sizes 34 to 42

No. 8098—sizes 34 to 42.

SECOND COXEY'S ARMY TO MARCH FOR WASHINGTON

Warning Sent to President Wilson That Delegation Will Start About April 16.

By United Press.

Cleveland, March 25—President

Wilson has been warned of the departure for Washington of a second "Coxey's army," which, it is said, will start April 16 from Massillon, O., the starting point for the first "army" twenty years ago.

"Gen." J. S. Coxey, of Massillon, the leader, tonight mailed the President a letter telling of his plans, and inclosing a pamphlet in "the Coxey plan of setting to work on market roads and other public improvements."

The "army" expects to arrive in Washington May 21, Coxey says, to petition the President and Congress for measures which will give work to the unemployed. "This will give you forty-five days to inform yourself of the object of this second march," Coxey's letter says, "and to consider the practicability and justice of our demands."

"On the previous march two other leaders and myself were jailed twenty days for our efforts."

Chronic Somach Trouble Cured.

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. Is it not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle? "About one year ago," says P. H. Beck, of Wakelee, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers.

SIX MILLIONS AT ISSUE IN SIX INTERNATIONAL CLAIMS

Tribunal on Arbitration Considering Antique Claims Replete With Interest.

By United Press.

Washington, March 26—Six million dollars is at issue in twenty-six claims now being considered here by an international tribunal on arbitration. The Commission, tucked away in an obscure building, is slowly grinding away at its work. Many of the claims are hoary with antiquity and replete with interest.

Most important is that made by Great Britain in behalf of the Cayuga Indians resident in Canada. It is claimed that the ancestors of these aborigines were prior to the war of 1812 deprived of their rights, which they had in a perpetual annuity of $2,300, which the state of New York agreed to pay for lands ceded to it by the Cayuga nation. The petitions hold that since 1908 only American Cayugas have been paid the annuity. The amount claimed with interest, amounts to nearly $1,000,000.

Among the American claims there is one by heirs of William Webster, who they claim, purchased lands in New Zealand from native chiefs about 70 years ago. Great Britain grabbed the property. It amounts to $170,000. A similar amount is involved in a like claim by one Studer, for concessions given him by the Sultan of Johore, and which he was later deprived of. The United States is represented in claims for the seizure by Canadian officials of American fishing vessels, and Great Britain in a counter claim for vessels seized in Bering Sea by the United States. Great Britain is also pressing claims for cutting of the oceanic cables at Cienfuegos, Cuba, in 1898 and in Manila Bay during the Spanish American war.

The tribunal to pass on the claims includes Hon. Henri Fromageot, of France; Hon. Chandler P. Anderson, formerly councillor of the American Department of State; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada.

Lippincott's and Spring.

The April Lippincott's makes its appearance March 21st, the day when Spring is officially ushered in. Crisp and breezy are its contents, full of the joyous zest characteristic of this season of growth. As usual, there is a complete novel—a remarkable tale of France in the days of Madame du Barry. "The Presentation" is its title, and H. de Vere Staepoole, the author. Staepoole will be remembered as the writer of "The Blue Lagoon," "The Crimson Azalea," "Molly Beamish," and other highly praised books. The plot of his new story has to do with the presentation of Du Barry at court, and the efforts of her enemies to prevent it. There is a dash and clan about it which remind one of Dumas at his best.

VILLA RECEIVES SERIOUS CHECK

Rebels' Conquest of Torreon Halted.

PROVES TO BE DIFFICULT JOB

Not Only Did the Rebel Leader Not Take Fortified City, as Had Been Reported, but His Victory at Important Suburban Approach to the Town Is Likely to Be Reversed by a Federal Rally.

Mexico City, March 26.—Contradictory rumors are in circulation here regarding the fight at Torreon, but no real news from the front has been received, as all railroad and telegraph lines have been cut. The minister of justice is said to have received telegrams stating that General Velasco, who is in command of the federal garrison at Torreon, purposely permitted the rebels to take Gomez Palacio and Lerdo so as to force them to enter an open plain between Lerdo and Torreon. Here General Velasco launched his cavalry against one flank of rebel troops and opened his artillery fire at the other, killing 1,800.

El Paso, Tex., March 26.—Reinforcements for the federal garrison in Torreon, arriving in the nick of time, enabled General Vasquez, the Huerta commander, to wrest from Pancho Villa's rebel army some of the fruits of its victory over him on Monday and Tuesday. A detachment of Villa's army was driven from Gomez Palacio and retired to El Verjel, according to a dispatch received in Juarez, said to have been sent by Villa himself. The dispatch did not say Villa's entire army had been repulsed, but that the detachment which had been left in Gomez Palacio during the Torreon attack had been dislodged and forced to retire. The news of the retreat was confirmed by dispatches to United States army officers here.

The federals are declared to be in full pursuit of the detachment under Villa, who is reported to have been driven twenty-two miles back northward. The supposition is that when reinforcements arrived to relieve Torreon, part of the garrison moved out to Gomez Palacio and made the attack while the others were fighting off Benavides' attack on the city proper from the east.

The last rebel advances from the front were that Benavides had sent a force into the city of Torreon proper. It is stated by the rebels in Juarez that Benavides has two-thirds of the rebel army with him in the attack on Torreon from the east and that the repulse of the detachment that had been holding Gomez Palacio does not mean anything but the temporary halting of a part of the rebel army.

Several dispatches given out by the rebels are all to the effect that the rebel attack against Torreon is proving effective. One of the dispatches said that the rebels were in the outskirts of Torreon and that at one time they captured 200 federals, after killing sixty-eight of a detachment of 300 Huertistas who were surrounded in an improvised fort. The 200 prisoners later were executed, it was admitted in Juarez.

A dispatch received in Juarez by the wife of General Benavides from his wife in Chihuahua, said she had received a dispatch from General Benavides stating that all was well at the front with the rebel forces. The rebels claimed in Juarez that their forces were closing in on Torreon and had already captured two quarters. Later they heard reports, though not official, that Villa had taken Torreon, but they were unable to confirm them. Explanation of the report that Torreon had fallen which reached Juarez early Tuesday evening, is given in Juarez as due to the fact that the fighting ceased at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Those in the rear presumed that the battle was over and somebody flashed the news to Juarez. Later the Juarez officials explained that General Villa had stopped the fighting at 5 p. m., to give his men a rest.

Another Border Battle Expected.

Eagle Pass, Tex., March 26.—Several hundred rebels are reported moving down the Rio Grande toward Las Vegas, opposite Del Rio, Tex., and a battle is expected between this body of troops and the federal garrison at Las Vegas.

COURT HOUSE ENDANGERED

Supposed Infernal Machine Discovered at Connersville.

Connersville, Ind., March 26.—Members of the grand jury were thrown into a state of excitement while in session here when the courthouse janitor entered the room and placed a beer bottle before them which had some appearance of an infernal machine. The bottle was filled with a white liquid and was corked with a corn cob. The cork was perforated and was plugged by what looked like the charred end of a fuse. The janitor had found the bottle in the attic above the courtroom, tied to a rung of a chair. Some regard the janitor's find as a joke, while the jurymen have another opinion. It is said that the contents will be examined at once by a chemist.

LUIS TERRAZAS, JR.

Son of Mexican Millionaire to Die in Default of Ransom.

Eagle Pass, Tex., March 26.—Reports have reached here from Chihuahua that Luis Terrazas, Jr., is to be executed at once if his father does not pay the half million dollars ransom money. Colonel Giron, commanding at Chihuahua City in the absence of Governor General Chao, asserted positively that his orders were to shoot Terrazas if the money was not forthcoming by midnight.

RECENT OPTION VOTE NOW UNDER QUESTION

Court Orders An Inquiry at Richmond.

Richmond, Ind., March 26.—Prosecutor Will Keller requested Judge H. C. Fox of the Wayne circuit court to have the grand jury investigate alleged violations of the election laws at the Richmond option election Tuesday, which resulted in a "wet" victory by a majority of 1,341. Judge Fox announced that he would call the grand jury some time early in the April term of court.

The judge and the prosecutor agreed it would be best not to have the election fraud charges investigated for three or four weeks because of the intense feeling aroused during the campaign.

S. Edgar Nicholson, secretary of the National Anti-Saloon league, directly charged in a public statement that money had been used by the "wets" for the purchasing of votes.

Leaders of the "wet" organization deny the expenditure of money for the purchase of votes or the importation of "floaters" and say they court the fullest investigation of the election.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The issue price of the portion of the Greek $100,000,000 loan floated in Paris was 93 3/4.

Cone Johnson of Texas has been appointed solicitor for the state department, to succeed Joseph W. Folk, resigned.

Robert Lansing, New York, has been appointed counselor for the state department to succeed John Bassett Moore, resigned.

William P. Malburn of Denver, a son-in-law of Senator Thomas, has taken the oath of office as assistant secretary of the treasury.

The debate in the senate on the Panama canal tolls question is proving to be the most spirited heard in congress in a long time.

President Huerta has negotiated a loan through the bankers of Mexico City, 50,000,000 pesos of which is to be available immediately.

President Wilson has set aside 4,600 acres of land along the Pend d'Oreille river in Washington state as a reservation for the Kalispel Indians.

The only evidence in Chihuahua of the battle at Torreon was the arrival of 200 dead horses on flatcars consigned to a soap factory in Chihuahua.

Frederic Mistral, the Provençal poet, is dead in his eighty-fourth year. In 1904 Mistral divided the Nobel prize for literature with Poehagaray, the Spanish dramatist.

Henry Phipps, identified with the United States Steel corporation since its organization, has announced his resignation from the directorate and the finance committee of the corporation.

The house has passed a bill forbidding importation of convict or pauper-made goods. An amendment to include in its inhibitions the admission of the products of child labor was defeated.

James Connaughton, for thirty-one years principal keeper of Sing Sing prison and known to every criminal and criminologist of the United States, is dead as a result of a stroke of apoplexy.

Senator Coe I. Crawford was defeated by more than 10,000 majority by Congressman Charles P. Burke, who was nominated for United States senator in South Dakota's state-wide primary election.

BRITISH TURMOIL ON THE INCREASE

Political Storm Will Not Blow Over Soon.

TAKING ON A GRAVER ASPECT

Though It Is Regarded as Highly Probable That the Government Will Successfully Ride the Storm That Has Been Created by the Situation in Ulster, the Furor Is Shaking British Politics to the Very Center.

Dublin, March 26.—News that the British government has repudiated the guarantee given by the army council to the officers of the Irish commands that they would not be forced to fight against Ulster has caused a sensation in the Curragh camp. The whole question at issue between the army and the government, which was believed to be on the road to settlement by the action of the army council, will, it is said, now be reopened.

London, March 26.—All parties and persons in England, including even King George, are taking up positions in the crisis arising from the refusal of the officers in Ireland to fight against Ulster.

Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, in a speech in the house of commons last night, said that the situation has become much more serious than anybody expected and that it is likely to take on even a graver aspect. It is hardly conceivable, however, that the government will fail to weather the storm.

The frank explanation made to the house of commons by Colonel Seely, the secretary of war, that he alone was responsible for the statement to Brigadier General Gough and the other officers of the brigade involved and his full assumption of all blame has to a great extent placated the extremists and they no longer talk of withdrawing their allegiance from the Asquith government. If nothing further happens to arouse resentment against the government it may be assumed that the clouds will lift and the home rule bill will come up on March 30, as has been arranged, and go into law under the parliament act.

There is a probability that the objections to Colonel Seely's action in yielding to the officers may be met by the transfer of the secretary of war to another post.

The Situation in a Nutshell.

The following digest of the military and political crisis gives the situation in a nutshell:

Cause of the Agitation—Opposition of Protestant and Industrial Ulster to the proposed home rule under which Catholic and agrarian Ireland would be in control.

Opposition Factors—The radical parties, Liberals, Laborites, Socialists and Irish Nationalists, known as the coalition, versus the Unionists, also called Conservatives. Allied with the latter are the army clique and the aristocracy.

Possible Results—If the home rule bill now before parliament for the third time is pushed to passage, armed rebellion on the part of Ulster with resultant civil war is looked on as a certainty. Ulster, it is known, has a volunteer army of more than 100,000 men.

If the home rule bill is not passed it makes imminent the overthrow of the Liberal government, which would bring on a general election, meantime nullifying all steps taken in other important legislation, such as Welsh disestablishment and land reform.

Should the government be overthrown the Liberals would undoubtedly go before the country on the issue raised by the latest phase of the conflict—Shall the army rule England?

Indirect Result—The crystallization of both Liberal and Conservative parties with realignment along economic class lines, the extreme Socialist, Democratic and Radical sections of the former party pulling away from the less advanced sections and using the question of army discipline to deepen and more clearly mark the cleavage between "classes and masses."

The opponents of the government want a general election, which the Unionists feel sure would return them to power, thus doing away with the problem of home rule altogether.

Premier Asquith's peace proposal contemplates the partial exclusion of Ulster from the workings of home rule for six years, pending settlement of the question by methods not yet outlined. He proposes that the nine Ulster counties vote separately on home rule, they to be excluded for a maximum time of six years if they so desire. The Unionists reject this proposal.

The influence of the church, as may be surmised, is mainly on the side of aristocracy and conservatism, the church using its influence toward an agreement and avoidance of fratricidal strife.

To Extend Farm Teaching.

Goshen, Ind., March 26.—The trustees of Goshen college, the educational institution of the Mennonite church maintained at Goshen, have bought the Rensberger farm of sixty acres, on the Elkhart prairie, east of the college, for $10,500. The farm will be used by the agricultural department of the college.

COLONEL SEELY

British Secretary of War Billed For Post of Government's Goat.

OUR MEXICAN POLICY RECEIVES A SCORING

Mr. Ainey Not In Accord With the President.

Washington, March 26.—In a speech delivered in the house by Representative Ainey of Pennsylvania, a Republican member of the committee on foreign affairs, President Wilson's policy of "watchful waiting" over Mexico was attacked. It was the most vigorous speech that has yet been heard in congress in denunciation of the administration's Mexican policy.

Mr. Ainey's address followed the action of the committee on foreign affairs in tabling by an overwhelming vote the resolution introduced by Mr. Ainey calling on the president to forward to the house all information in his possession bearing on conditions in Mexico.

Mr. Ainey paid his respects to Villa and the revolutionists in scorching language. He characterized Villa as a "vulgar, ignorant, brutal specimen of humanity," a "blustering bully," and declared "that the success of Villa would turn Mexico over to a reign of terror."

"Villa belongs to the hills," said Mr. Ainey. "He is without national military sense. He has never yet sought a battle except where the odds were overwhelming in his favor, and those who know him best say he will never fight at Torreon unless bribery or the withdrawal of the federal forces gives him the assurance of victory."

Representative Ainey was severe in his references to the failure of the administration to punish the perpetrators of outrages in Mexico. He argued that the administration "should have recognized Huerta at the outset and, concluding, said: 'If war comes with Mexico; if Huerta, spurned by the United States, turns to Japan and the price is Magdalena bay; if the citizens of Germany are murdered in Mexico and we are thereby involved, the responsibility for the dire results rests upon a weak and obstinate policy which has refused the pathway of safe and patriotic precedent.'"

MRS. GUNNESS RECOGNIZED

Indiana Murderess Located on a Farm in Saskatchewan.

Moose Jaw, Canada, March 26.—Clinton Cochran, marshal from Laporte, Ind., arrived here today with a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Belle Gunness. The officials say they are positive the woman under suspicion here is the one wanted for several murders in Indiana. She is reported as homesteading at Neville, Sask.

The woman was first recognized some weeks ago by a man who had gone to school with her in Norway. He is also a homesteader. He reported the matter to the police and the woman was interviewed. Her story of her life is indefinite.

It is understood the arrest will be made today and that extradition has been arranged.

Wives in Agreement.

Stamford, Conn., March 26.—The body of Professor Harry Thurston Peck, who committed suicide by shooting himself, was removed to the home of his former wife, Mrs. Cornelia Dawburn Peck, at Sound Beach, with the consent of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Peck, his second wife.

SEEK IMMUNITY IN FRAUD CASES

Witnesses Preparing to Turn State's Evidence.

FREED FROM PROSECUTION

When Court Dismissed Charge Against Grover Smith in the Terre Haute Election Fraud Case in Consideration of His Promise to Testify Against Mayor Roberts, Who Now Is on Trial, Others Sought Immunity.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 26.—That several witnesses will turn state's evidence in the case of the state against Mayor Donn M. Roberts was shown when Special Judge Blankenbaker dismissed the charge against Grover C. Smith, who was indicted with William Huffman, former councilman, convicted recently of permitting election ballots to be removed from his custody and marked for Roberts. By turning state's evidence Smith is free from further prosecution by the state for the same offense.

It is understood that Smith will be an important witness for the state in the trial of Roberts. It also became known that several others who were connected with the Roberts organization of last fall have asked to be allowed to turn state's evidence and receive immunity. It is understood that there have been a number of persons importuning the prosecution to be allowed to turn state's evidence. Special Prosecutor Roach refused either to affirm or deny the report.

Examination of talesmen in the Roberts case is slowly nearing completion. Most of the talesmen examined declared they had positive views regarding the guilt or innocence of the accused and were found to be incompetent as jurors. So rapidly was the special venire being exhausted that Judge Fortune ordered a second special venire of twenty-five talesmen.

NEW EVIDENCE PROMISED

Minister's Prosecutors Say They Are Ready For Appeal.

Bloomington, Ind., March 26.—Following the announcement of the Rev. John R. Ellis that he will appeal to the synod and the general assembly if necessary, from the ruling of the Indianapolis Presbytery commission that he be suspended from the ministry, one of the representatives of the prosecution said that the church will be able to make out a stronger case next time. The statement was as follows:

"We have found additional new evidence and from reliable sources that will strengthen the testimony that was presented in the first trial at Martinsville."

It is not known here that the case will ever be appealed to the higher bodies of the church by the Rev. Mr. Ellis.

Didn't Clear Up Mystery.

Logansport, Ind., March 26.—The grand jury called to investigate the alleged shortage in the electric light department of the city and the mystery connected with the disappearance of a valuable public record from the electric light office after state accountants had ordered it kept for them, adjourned without returning any indictments. The accountants charged a shortage of $3,225.57 in the funds of the department for the last nine months of the year 1913.

Wounded Man Indicted.

Evansville, Ind., March 26.—John Brown of this city has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. Several weeks ago Brown fought a duel with John Hill, a bridge carpenter of Nashville, Tenn. Brown was severely wounded. Pearl Vitetow tried to separate the men and was shot and killed. Hill is under indictment charged with first degree murder.

An Overflow of Candidates.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 26.—The election commissioners are facing an unprecedented complication in Allen county. Sixty-eight Democrats are seeking nominations and the voting machines are limited to fifty. What to do with the excess is causing the commissioners sleepless nights.

Sunday Movies Necessary, Says Jury.

Muncie, Ind., March 26.—Holding that a motion picture theater is a necessity and is therefore permitted to operate on Sunday, a jury in city court acquitted John Day, proprietor, of violating the Sunday closing law. Other like affidavits will be dismissed.

Goshen Store Robbed of Silk.

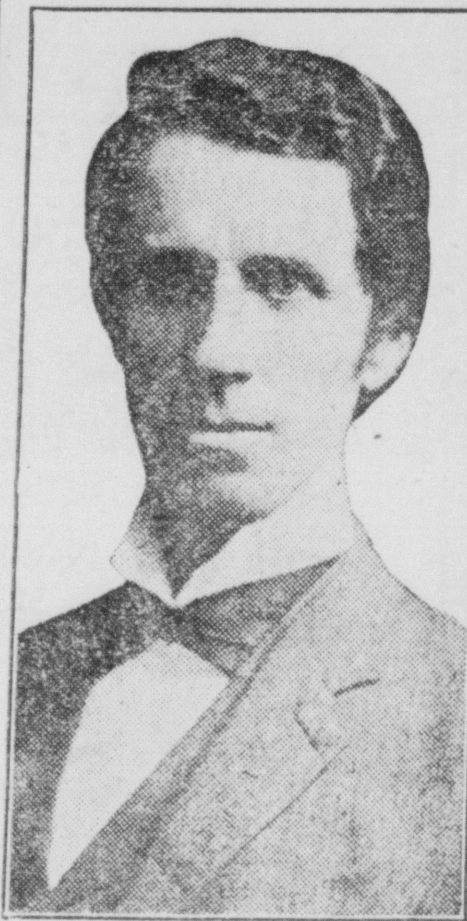

Goshen, Ind., March 26.—Another silk robbery has occurred in Goshen. The dry goods store of Dembursky's Sons was robbed of silks amounting to $500 in value. A few days ago $1,000 worth of silk was stolen from a train here.

Clothing Caught in Shafting.

Warsaw, Ind., March 26.—Arthur Smith, twenty-one years old, was instantly killed here when his clothing caught in the shafting of the Bourbon grain elevator. Every bone in his body was broken.

FINLY H. GRAY

Indiana Congressman Pays His Respects to Promoters of War.

NO PITY FOR JINGOES AND NEWSPAPER MEN

Mr. Gray Would Put Them In Battle's Forefront.

Washington, March 26.—In the debate on the pending pension bill Representative Gray of Indiana, who prides himself on having the loudest voice in the house, shrieked a tribute to Secretary of State Bryan. This was the tribute:

"I now take the opportunity of saying a few words for that greatest of living statesmen, William Jennings Bryan, our noble secretary of state. He has done more for the peace of the world, for the composition of international difficulties for the good of humanity—on grape juice—than any of the other fellows who preceded him were able to accomplish with either cocktails or highballs."

Also Mr. Gray told the house that if he had his way he would put all the war shouters, jingoes and reporters in the forefront of battle.

"When the front rank had fallen," he said, "I would stand up another row, and when they were all gone I would line up a rank of these newspaper men and get rid of them while we were at it."

FIRES BEING INVESTIGATED

Evidences of Persistent Arson at Plymouth and Lakeville.

South Bend, Ind., March 26.—Two inspectors from the office of the state fire marshal conferred with county authorities with the expectation of filing charges of arson against at least two residents of Lakeville, ten miles south of this city. William Robertson, also of Lakeville, who was placed in the county jail has been released on bond, on a charge of larceny, and is understood to be preparing to give the officers information in regard to incendiary fires recently at Lakeville and Plymouth. Preparations are being made for taking the cases before the grand jury. The fires in the two towns occurred with such frequency that the officials were sent here from Indianapolis to investigate.

Tannenbaum On Trial.

New York, March 26.—Frank Tannenbaum, the youthful leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, who recently led three hundred homeless men into New York churches, is on trial on an indictment charging him with participating in an unlawful assemblage.

CHAPTER XIV.

Crossing the Channel.

Booth, restless with a vague uneasiness that had come over him during the night, keeping him awake until nearly dawn, was hard put during the early hours of the forenoon to find occupation for his interest until a seasonable time arrived for appearing at Southlook. He was unable to account for this feeling of uncertainty and irritation.

At nine he set out to walk over to Southlook, realizing that he should have to spend an hour in profitless gossip with the lodge keeper before presenting himself at the villa, but somehow relishing the thought that even so he would be nearer to Hetty than if he remained in his own doorway.

Half-way there he was overtaken by Sara's big French machine returning from the village. The car came to a standstill as he stepped aside to let it pass, and Sara herself leaned over and cordially invited him to get in and ride home with her.

"What an early bird you are," he exclaimed as he took his seat beside her.

She was not in a mood for airy persiflage, as he soon discovered.

"Miss Castleton has gone up to town, Mr. Booth," she said rather lifelessly. "I have just taken her to the station. She caught the eight-thirty."

He was at once solicitous. "No bad news, I hope?" There was no thought in his mind that her absence was other than temporary.

"She is not coming back, Brandon." She had not addressed him as Brandon before.

He stared. "You—you mean—" The words died on his lips.

"She is not coming back," she repeated.

An accusing gleam leaped into his eyes.

"What has happened, Mrs. Wrاندall?" he asked.

She was quick to perceive the change in his voice and manner.

"She prefers to live apart from me. That is all."

"When was this decision reached?"

"But yesterday. Soon after she came in from her walk with you."

"Do—do you mean to imply that that had anything to do with her leaving your home?" he demanded, with a flush on his cheek.

She met his look without flinching.

"It was the beginning."

"You—you criticised her? You took her to task?"

"I notified her that she was to marry Leslie Wrاندall if she marries anyone at all," she said in a perfectly level tone.

"Good Lord, Mrs. Wrاندall!"

"But she is not going to marry Leslie."

"I know it—I knew it yesterday," he cried triumphantly. "She loves me, Sara. Didn't she say as much to you?"

"Yes, Brandon, she loves you. But she will not be your wife."

"What is all this mystery? Why can't she be my wife? What is there to prevent?"

She regarded him with dark, inscrutable eyes. Many seconds passed before she spoke.

"Would you want her for your wife if you knew she had belonged to another man?"

He turned very cold. The palms of his hands were wet, as with ice-water. Something dark seemed to flit before his eyes.

"I will not believe that of an heir," he said, shaking his head with an air of finality.

"That is not an answer to my question."

"Yes, I would still want her," he declared steadily.

"I merely meant to put you to the harshest test," she said, and there was relief in her voice. "She is a good girl, she is pure. I asked my question because until yesterday I had reason to doubt her."

"Good heavens, how could you doubt those honest, guileless eyes of—"

She shook her head sadly. "To answer you I would have to reveal the secret that makes it impossible for her to become your wife, and that I cannot, will not do."

"Is it fair to me?"

"Perhaps not, but it is fair to her, and that is why I must remain silent."

"Before God, I shall know the truth—from her, if not from you—and—"

"If you love her, if you will be kind to her, you will let her go her way in peace."

He was struck by the somewhat sinister earnestness of her words.

"Tell me where I may find her," he said, setting his jaw.

"It will not be difficult for you to find her," she said, frowning. "If you insist on pursuing her."

"You drive her away from your house, Sara Wrاندall, and yet you expect me to believe that your motives are friendly. Why should I accept your word as final?"

"I did not drive her away, nor did I ask her to stay."

He stared hard at her.

"Good Lord, what is the meaning of all this?" he cried in perplexity. "What am I to understand?"

The car had come to a stop under the porte cochere. She laid her hand on his arm.

"If you will come in with me, Brandon, I will try to make things clear to you."

He left in half an hour, walking rapidly down the drive, his coat buttoned closely, although the morning was hot and breathless. He held in his hand a small scrap of paper on which was written: "If I loved you less, I would come to you now and lie to you. If you love me, Brandon, you will let me go my way. It is the only course. Sara is my friend, and she is yours. Be guided by her, and believe in my love for you. Hetty."

And now, as things go in fairy stories, we should prepare ourselves to see Hetty pass through a season in drudgery and hardship, with the ultimate quintessence of joy as the reward for her trials and tribulations. Happily, this is not a fairy tale. There are some things more fantastic than fairy tales, if they are not spoiled in the telling. Hetty did not go forth to encounter drudgery, disdain and obloquy. By no manner of means! She went with a well-filled purse, a definite purpose ahead and a determined factor behind.

In a manner befitting her station as the intimate friend of Mrs. Challis Wrاندall, as the cousin of the Murgatroyds, as the daughter of Colonel Castleton of the Indian corps, as a person supposed to be possessed of independent means withal, she went, with none to question, none to cavil.

Sara had insisted on this, as much for her own sake as for Hetty's; she argued, and she had prevailed in the end. What would the world think, what would their acquaintances think, and above all what would the high and mighty Wrاندalls think if she went with meek and lowly mien?

Why should they make it possible for anyone to look askance?

And so it was that she departed in state, with a dozen trunks and boxes; an obsequiously attended seat in the parlor car was hers; a telegram in her bag assured her that rooms were being reserved for herself and maid at the Ritz-Carlton; alongside it reposed a letter to Mr. Carroll, instructing him to provide her with sufficient funds to carry out the plan agreed upon; and in the seat behind sat the lady's maid who had served her for a twelvemonth and more.

The timely demise of the venerable Lord Murgatroyd afforded the most natural excuse for her trip to England. The old nobleman gave up the ghost, allowing for difference in time, at the very moment when Mrs. Redmond Wrاندall was undoing a certain package from London, which turned out to be a complete history of what his forbears had done in the way of propagation since the fourteenth century.

Hetty did not find it easy to accommodate her pride to the plan which was to give her a fresh and rather imposing start in the world. She was to have a full year in which to determine whether she should accept toil and poverty as her lot, or emulate the symbolic example of Dicky, the canary bird. At the end of the year, unless she did as Dicky had done, her source of supplies would be automatically cut off and she would be entirely dependent upon her own wits and resources.

In the interim she was a probationary person of leisure. It had required hours of persuasion on the part of Sara Wrاندall to bring her into line with these arrangements.

"But I am able and willing to work for my living," had been Hetty's stubborn retort to all the arguments brought to bear upon her.

"Then let me put it in another light. It is vital to me, of course, that you should keep up the show of affluence for a while at least. I think I have made that clear to you. But here is another side to the matter; the question of recompense."

"Recompense?" cried Hetty sharply.

"Without your knowing it, I have virtually held you a prisoner all these months, condemned in my own judgment if not in the sight of the law. I have taken the law unto myself. You were not convicted of murder in this unitarian court of mine, but of another sin. For fifteen months you have been living under the shadow of a crime you did not commit. I was reserving complete punishment for you in the shape of an ignoble marriage, which was to have served two bitter ends. Well, I had the truth from you. I believe you to be absolutely innocent of the charge I held over you, for which I condemned you without a hearing. Then, why should I not employ my own means of making restitution?"

"You have condescended to believe in me. That is all I ask."

"True, that is all you ask. But is it altogether the fair way out of it?"

"To illustrate: our criminal laws are less kind to the innocent than to the guilty. Our law courts find a man guilty and he is sent to prison. Later on, he is found to be innocent—absolutely innocent. What does the state do in the premises? It issues a formal pardon—a mockery, pure and simple—and the man is set free. It all comes to a curt, belated apology for an error on the part of justice. No substantial recompense is offered. He is merely pardoned for something he didn't do. The state, which has wronged him, condescends to pardon him! Think of it! It is the same as if a man knocked another down and then said, before he removed his foot from the victim's neck: 'I pardon you freely.' My father was opposed to the system we have—that all countries have—of pardoning men who have been unjustly condemned. The innocent victim is pardoned in the same manner as the guilty one who comes in for clemency. I accept my father's contention that an innocent man should not be shamed and humiliated by a pardon. The court which tried him should reopen the case and honorably acquit him of the crime. Then the state should pay to this innocent man, dollar for dollar, all that he might have earned during his term of imprisonment, with an additional amount for the suffering he has endured. Not long ago in an adjoining state a man, who had served seventeen years of a life sentence for murder, was found to be wholly innocent. What happened? A pardon was handed to him and he walked out of prison, broken in spirit, health and purse. His small fortune had been wiped out in the futile effort to prove his innocence. He gave up seventeen years of his life and then was pardoned for the sacrifice. He should have been paid for every day spent in prison. That was the very least they could have done."

"I see now what you mean," mused Hetty. "I have never thought of it in that way before."

"Well, it comes to this in our case, Hetty: I have tried you all over again in my own little court and I have acquitted you of the charge I had against you. I do not offer you a silly pardon. You must allow me to have my way in this matter, to choose my own means of compensating you for—"

"You saved my life," protested Hetty, shaking her head obstinately.

"My dear, I appreciate the fact that you are English," said Sara, with a weary smile, "but won't you please see the point?"

Then Hetty smiled too, and the way was easier after that for Sara. She gained her quixotic point, and Hetty went away from Southlook feeling that no woman in all the world was so bewildering as Sara Wrاندall.

When she sailed for England, two days later, the newspapers announced that the beautiful and attractive Miss Castleton was returning to her native land on account of the death of Lord Murgatroyd, and would spend the year on the continent, where probably she would be joined later on by Mrs. Wrاندall, whose period of mourning and distress had been softened by the constant and loyal friendship of "this exquisite Englishwoman."

Four hundred miles out at sea she was overtaken by wireless messages from three persons.

Brandon Booth's message said: "I am sailing tomorrow on a faster ship than yours. You will find me waiting for you on the landing stage." Her heart gave a leap to dizzy heights, and, try as she would, she could not crush it back to the depths in which it had dwelt for days.

The second bit of pale green paper contained a cry from a most unexpected source: "Cable your London address. S. refuses to give it to me. I think I understand the situation. We want to make amends for what you have had to put up with during the year. She has shown her true nature at last." It was signed "Leslie."

From Sara came these cryptic words: "For each year of famine there will come seven years of plenty."

All the way across the Atlantic she lived in a state of subdued excitement. Conflicting emotions absorbed her waking hours but her dreams were all of one complexion: rosy and warm and full of a joyousness that distressed her vastly when she recalled them to mind in the early morning hours. During the day she intermittently hoped and feared that he would be on the landing stage. In any event, she was bound to find unhappiness. If he were there her joy would be short-lived and blighting; if he were not there, her disappointment would be equally hard to bear.

He was there. She saw him from the deck of the tender as they edged up to the landing. His tall figure loomed in the front rank against the rail that held back the crowd; his sun-bronzed face wore a look of eager expectancy; from her obscured position in the shadow of the deck building, purposely chosen for reasons only too obvious, she could even detect the alert, swift-moving scrutiny that he fastened upon the crowd.

Later on, he stood looking down into her serious blue eyes; her hands were lying limp in his. His own eyes were dark with earnestness, with the restraint that had fastened itself upon him. Behind her stood the respectful but immeasurably awed maid, who could not, for the life of her, understand how a man could be on both sides of the Atlantic at one and the same time.

"Thank the Lord, Hetty, say I, for the five-day boats," he was saying.

"You should not have come, Brandon," she cried softly, and the look of misery in her eyes was tinged with a glow she could not suppress. "It only makes everything harder for me. I—I— Oh, I wish you had not come!"

"But isn't it wonderful?" he cried, "that I should be here and waiting for you? It is almost inconceivable. And you were in the act of running away from me, too. Oh, I have that much of the tale from Sara, so don't look so hurt about it."

"I am so sorry you came," she repeated, her lip trembling.

Noting her emotion, he gave her hands a fierce, encouraging pressure and immediately released them.

"Come," he said gently; "I have booked for London. Everything is arranged. I shall see to your luggage. Let me put you in the carriage first."

As she sat in the railway carriage, waiting for him to return, she tried in a hundred ways to devise a means of escape, and yet she had never loved him so much as now. Her heart was sore, her desolation never so complete as now.

He came back at last and took his seat beside her in the compartment, fanning himself with his hat. The maid very discreetly stared out of the window at the hurrying throng of travelers on the platform.

"How I love you, Hetty—how I adore you!" Booth whispered passionately.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

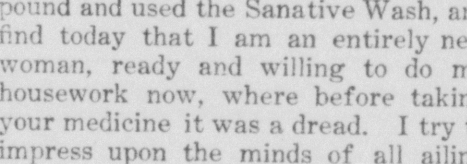

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved. Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, R. F. D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SERVING MUSHROOMS.

MUSHROOMS are a delicacy, yet a light nutrient. There are but few persons who do not relish them, but such fatal mistakes are made by gatherers that many are disinclined to eat them, or at least do so with more or less reluctance. Mushrooms may be bought in the markets, or the dried ones are sold in the shops.

Grilled Mushrooms.—Mushrooms for grilling must be of a large and even size. After having washed them and cut off the stalks, dip them in olive oil, season with salt and pepper, then grill over a bright fire, turning them when done on one side. Arrange in a vegetable dish, the hollow side upward, then place in the center of each mushroom a very small pat of maître d'hôtel butter or parsley butter and serve hot.

Mushrooms in Cases.

Wipe and peel eight cup mushrooms, cut them into small dice and fry them with an ounce of butter in a saute pan. Butter some soufflé cases, paper or china, lay a thin slice of lemon in each, three parts fill with prepared mushrooms and season to taste. Spread a layer of potted deviled meat mixed with a yolk of egg, over the mushrooms, brush over with melted butter and bake for fifteen minutes.

A Dainty Way.

Mushroom Croûtes.—Take slices of stale white bread, stamp these out into rounds or oblongs with a fancy or plain cutter, fry them in butter to a golden color and drain. Have ready the required quantity of large button mushrooms, peeled, minus stalks and fried in butter; also a mixture of finely chopped beef and ham, moistened with a little rich brown sauce. When quite hot spread the meat mixture over the croûtes, place a mushroom on each; season with salt, pepper, cayenne and a little lemon juice. Put them in a hot oven for a few minutes, dish up, garnish with fried parsley and serve.

Served on Toast.

Mushroom With Eggs.—Peel and take the stalks from four or five mushrooms, wash and drain them, then cut them into small slices, place them in a stewpan with two ounces of butter and season well with salt and pepper and allow them to stew gently for twenty minutes. Break six eggs into a basin and beat them up thoroughly; add two tablespoonsful of milk and pour the mixture over the mushrooms in the stewpan. Stir them gently with a spoon until the mixture is set.

Spring Silks*

SPRING OPENING

We Cordially Invite You To Be Present At Our Spring Display
Friday, Saturday and Monday,
March 27th, 28th and 30th.

Informal Revue of the best that the Season has to offer in modish apparel for women, misses and children.

Many pretty Easter Silks, Dress Goods, White Goods and Dress Cotton are here. Considering that it is only two weeks till Easter—it is not a minute too soon for you to select the fabrics for your Easter apparel.

The Spring MILLINERY Exhibit of Friday, Saturday and Monday is Fashion's Final Word

Hats from the various artists and makers, such as Fisk, Gold Medal and Hart, are well represented in this display. There is also a wonderful varied showing of untrimmed hats and trimmings.

With the reconstruction of the interior of our store we have made shopping a pleasure.

Plenty of room, good wide aisles. The entire second floor devoted to ready-to-wear garments and millinery.

In order to give Seymour a furniture department equal to cities, we have annexed the Postal Building to our enterprises, and with pleasure are able to show you furniture of quality, finish, style and price never shown in towns of this size.

Preparation For Easter-Tide Apparel Is Now Uppermost In Every Woman's Mind

Taking a Look at the New Suits, Coats, Dresses and Blouses For Spring

The smart, new, outer garments for Spring show originality in every line. Short coats are the feature most noticeable in suits, and skirts in overskirt effect are in evidence.

The styles shown here are not the freaks of fashion grotesquely decorating the pages of many style books, but are the sensible conservative, wearable styles that appeal to the reason as well as the pride of the average shopper.

The separate coats are noticeably shorter, in full cut away effects that are extremely smart. These coats are very loose and "baggy" with very full kimono sleeves. Novelty materials, as well as handsome brocades are used.

The new Blouse Waists in Silk, Crepe and Cotton Materials—made with kimono sleeves and V-neck, with the new lay down collar and trimmed with fancy buttons that add a touch of color and adornment. We simply suggest that you see these new things. Only by inspection and comparison can you really gain a true appreciation of what we offer in style, quality and value.
